Legal Reasoning [Q1 – Q10]

Section 10 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 states: 'All agreements are contracts if they are made by the free consent of parties competent to contract, for a lawful consideration and with a lawful object, and are not hereby expressly declared to be void.' Ram, aged 16, enters into an agreement with Shyam to purchase a motorcycle for Rs 50,000.

Q1. What is the legal status of the agreement between Ram and Shyam?

- A Valid contract as both parties agreed
- B Voidable at the option of Ram
- C Void ab initio as Ram is a minor
- D Valid if Ram's guardian ratifies it

Your Answer: [A] [B] [C] [D] (circle one) | Justify your answer below:

In Balfour v. Balfour (1919), a husband promised to pay his wife a monthly allowance while she stayed in England for health reasons. When they separated, the wife sued for the allowance. The court held that agreements between spouses regarding domestic matters do not create legal relations.

Q2. Based on the principle in Balfour v. Balfour, which of the following would NOT be enforceable?

- A A written partnership deed between husband and wife
- B A husband's promise to his wife to pay for her shopping every month
- C A commercial lease agreement between spouses
- D An employment contract where a wife works in husband's company

Your Answer: [A] [B] [C] [D] (circle one) | Justify your answer below:

Article 19(1)(a) of the Indian Constitution guarantees freedom of speech and expression. However, Article 19(2) allows the State to impose reasonable restrictions on this right in the interests of sovereignty and integrity of India, security of the State, friendly relations with foreign States, public order, decency or morality, contempt of court, defamation, or incitement to an offence.

Q3. A journalist publishes classified defence documents claiming public interest. The government seeks to prosecute. Which ground under Article 19(2) is most relevant?

- A Public order
- B Decency or morality
- C Security of the State
- D Contempt of court

Your Answer: [A] [B] [C] [D] (circle one) | Justify your answer below:

Section 300 of the Indian Penal Code defines murder. Exception 1 states that culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, whilst deprived of the power of self-control by grave and sudden provocation, causes the death of the person who gave the provocation.

Q4. Ajay finds his colleague Vijay stealing from his locker. In rage, Ajay picks up a heavy paperweight and strikes Vijay on the head, killing him. Which statement is most accurate?

- A This is murder as property theft cannot constitute grave provocation
- B This may fall under Exception 1 if the provocation was grave and sudden
- C This is not culpable homicide as Ajay was protecting his property
- D This is justifiable homicide under the right of private defence

Your Answer: [A] [B] [C] [D] (circle one) | Justify your answer below:

Q5. Under Section 124A of the Indian Penal Code, sedition is defined as bringing or attempting to bring hatred or contempt towards the Government established by law. In Kedar Nath Singh v. State of Bihar (1962), the Supreme Court upheld the validity of this section but with what important limitation?

- A Only written words can constitute sedition, not spoken words
- B Sedition requires proof of actual violence or public disorder
- C The words must incite violence or create public disorder
- D Only government officials can file sedition charges

Your Answer: [A] [B] [C] [D] (circle one) | Justify your answer below:

The doctrine of 'Pith and Substance' is used to determine the true nature and character of a legislation. If a law substantially falls within a matter assigned to the legislature that enacted it, it will not be held invalid merely because it incidentally trenches upon a matter assigned to another legislature.

Q6. Parliament enacts a law primarily regulating inter-state trade of agricultural products, but it also incidentally covers local farming practices. A state challenges this law. How would the court likely rule?

- A The law is invalid as farming is a State subject
- B The law is valid under Pith and Substance as it primarily concerns inter-state trade
- C The law needs Presidential assent to be valid
- D The law must be split into central and state components

Your Answer: [A] [B] [C] [D] (circle one) | Justify your answer below:

Q7. Which of the following writs can be issued by the Supreme Court under Article 32 to command a public official to perform a mandatory duty?

Section 73 of the Indian Contract Act provides that when a contract has been broken, the party who suffers by such breach is entitled to receive compensation for any loss or damage caused to him, being loss or damage which naturally arose in the usual course of things from such breach, or which the parties knew when they made the contract to be likely to result from the breach.

Q8. A supplier fails to deliver raw materials to a factory on time, causing the factory to miss a major export order that the supplier knew about. The factory claims loss of profits from the export order. Is this claim valid?

- A No, loss of profits is too speculative to claim
- B Yes, as the supplier knew about the export order when making the contract
- C No, only the cost of raw materials can be claimed
- D Yes, but only if the factory had no alternative suppliers

- D The burden of proof lies on the person making the claim

Your Answer: [A] [B] [C] [D] (circle one) | Justify your answer below:

Article 21 of the Constitution states: 'No person shall be deprived of his life or personal liberty except according to procedure established by law.' In Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India (1978), the Supreme Court held that the procedure must be fair, just and reasonable, not merely any enacted procedure.

Q10. The government passes a law allowing detention of any person for 90 days without judicial review. A detainee challenges this law. Based on the Maneka Gandhi principle, what would the court likely hold?

- A The law is valid as it is procedure established by law
- B The law violates Article 21 as the procedure is not fair, just and reasonable
- C The law is valid if passed by Parliament with a two-thirds majority
- D The law is valid during a national emergency only

English Language [Q21 – Q30]

The proliferation of misinformation on social media platforms has emerged as one of the most pressing challenges of the digital age. Unlike traditional media, where editorial oversight and fact-checking mechanisms serve as gatekeepers of information quality, social media operates in a largely unregulated ecosystem where content virality is driven by engagement rather than accuracy. Studies have shown that false news spreads approximately six times faster than true news on platforms like Twitter, partly because sensationalist content triggers stronger emotional responses. This 'attention economy' creates perverse incentives where platforms benefit from the very misinformation they claim to combat, as inflammatory content generates more clicks, shares, and ultimately, advertising revenue.

Q21. What does the author suggest is the fundamental conflict faced by social media platforms regarding misinformation?

- A They lack the technology to detect false information
- B Their revenue model profits from the engagement that misinformation generates
- C Government regulations prevent them from removing content
- D Users prefer misinformation over factual content

Your Answer: [A] [B] [C] [D] (circle one) | Justify your answer below:

The Indian judiciary has long grappled with the tension between individual liberty and collective security. In recent years, courts have increasingly relied on the proportionality test — a four-pronged analysis that examines whether a state action (i) serves a legitimate aim, (ii) is rationally connected to that aim, (iii) uses the least restrictive means available, and (iv) achieves a fair balance between the rights infringed and the benefits gained. This analytical framework, borrowed from European jurisprudence, has fundamentally transformed how Indian courts evaluate the constitutionality of laws that restrict fundamental rights.

Q23. According to the passage, which element is NOT part of the proportionality test?

- A Whether the action serves a legitimate aim
- B Whether the least restrictive means are used
- C Whether the majority of citizens support the action
- D Whether there is a fair balance between rights and benefits

Your Answer: [A] [B] [C] [D] (circle one) | Justify your answer below:

Climate change adaptation in developing nations presents a paradox: those least responsible for greenhouse gas emissions are often the most vulnerable to its effects. Small island nations, which contribute less than 1% of global emissions, face existential threats from rising sea levels. Meanwhile, the agrarian economies of Sub-Saharan Africa, despite their negligible carbon footprints, confront increasingly erratic rainfall patterns that devastate crop yields. The principle of 'common but differentiated responsibilities,' enshrined in the UNFCCC framework, acknowledges this inequity but has struggled to translate into meaningful financial transfers from industrialized nations to vulnerable communities.

Q26. The author's use of 'paradox' in the opening line refers to:

- A The contradiction between scientific evidence and public opinion on climate change
- B The disparity between who causes climate change and who suffers its worst effects
- C The conflict between economic growth and environmental protection
- D The disagreement between developed and developing nations on emissions targets

The doctrine of judicial review, while essential to constitutional democracy, has attracted criticism from those who view it as counter-majoritarian. Critics argue that unelected judges should not have the power to overturn legislation passed by democratically elected representatives. Proponents, however, contend that judicial review serves as a vital safeguard against the 'tyranny of the majority' – protecting minority rights that might otherwise be trampled by majoritarian impulses. This tension between democratic accountability and constitutional supremacy remains one of the most enduring debates in legal philosophy.

Q28. The passage presents judicial review as:

- A An illegitimate exercise of judicial power
- B A concept with both significant benefits and valid criticisms
- C The most important feature of democracy
- D A practice that should be abolished
